

Tensinet

SURVEY

Background

The idea of TensiNet became reality in 1999 as a proposal for a European thematic network project. This initial project has been funded by the European Commission for three years (2001-2004). The consortium of TensiNet consisted of 22 participating organisations with representatives from 9 EU member states. The membership formed a complementary group representing multi-disciplinary industries (coater and weaver, manufacturer, producer, engineering and architecture offices), universities and other associations. Within the thematic programme GROWTH (Promoting Competitive and Sustainable Growth) the partners made the knowledge of their specific domain available and exchanged know-how between different disciplines. The publication of the first European Design Guide for Tensile Surface Structures was the result of these three years of assembling, structuring, and analysing existing data. TensiNet continued the established network of experts under the wings of the Vrije Universiteit Brussel. Since April 2020 TensiNet became an international non-profit association with Bernd Stimpfle, Roberto Canobbio and Marijke Mollaert as Founding Directors.
